GEORGIAN SEEN AS SUCCESSOR TO KEY PITTMAN

Harrison Decides to Retain Finance Leadership

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Elevation of Senator George (D-Ga.) to the chairmanship of the senate foreign relations committee appeared to be assured today as Senate Majority Leader Barkley called the Democratic steering committee into session to act on the vacancy created by the death of Senator Key Pittman of Nevada.

Members of the steering group said the way had been cleared for selection of George by a decision of Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) to retain his leadership of the finance committee. Harrison outranks George in service on the foreign relations committee.

Although George consistently has declined to comment on foreign affairs since it became known that he probably would head the committee, friends said it was expected that he would work in close cooperation with Secretary Hull and other state department officials.

In connection with major issues which may receive the attention of congress in the near future, George is understood to oppose any immediate revision of the Neutrality Act and revision or repeal of the Johnson Act prohibiting loans to nations, including Britain, which are in default on their World War debts to this country.

He is reported to favor a firm hand in dealing with Japan in the Far East and to advocate close cooperation with Latin-American countries for economic as well as military solidarity in the western hemisphere.

BRICKER PLANS STATE RELIEF APPROPRIATION

May Be Able to Match County Funds, Dollar for Dollar

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Nov. 23.—Ohio yet may match 1940 county relief expenditures dollar-for-dollar through a special legislative appropriation next year.

Gov. John W. Bricker said today he expected the new legislature which meets in January, to make additional appropriations for 1940 relief if the state's finances permit.

Sees Enough Funds "At the rate revenues have been increasing, I believe the state will have sufficient funds to provide 50-50 relief matching for 1940," the governor said.

The present legislature, at its special session last summer, appropriated $1,000,000 additional relief funds to permit the state to match county expenditures in 1939.

The governor said he would not know until the end of the year how much additional money would be required to meet half the 1940 relief expenditures.

The governor anticipated that the new legislature would adhere to the policy established for the current biennium of granting a basic $10,000,000 a year for relief.

"Of course we cannot ascertain how much money will be available for relief until the revenues of the state for the next two years can be estimated accurately and the budget prepared," Bricker said.

The executive said he believed however, that there would be sufficient funds to care for relief adequately, provide an additional $2,500,000 a year for increased old age pensions and continue sizable payments on the state school deficit.

Considers Fund Problems "It looks as though one of the biggest problems facing the new legislature will be to provide additional funds for local governments," he said.

"I now am considering this problem with local officials and other interested parties."

One suggestion for increasing local revenues, he added, was to return automobiles to the local property tax duplicates and reduce the state registration fee to a flat $3. He indicated, however, that such a proposal would have difficulty in passing the legislature.

Confession Given By Former Deputy YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 23.—Pleading for probation, Willis W. Winger, former chief deputy sheriff of Mahoning county confessed yesterday the embezzlement of $3,944 in county funds.

Winger took the stand Wednesday and blamed the shortage on a bookkeeping error. In seeking leniency Friday he reversed his testimony and Judge Erskine said the shortage began in 1938.

Two Cars Collide, Columbiana Driver Faces Mayor Here

Thurston Davis, 27, of Columbiana, was arrested by police on a charge of driving while intoxicated as the result of a collision at the intersection of N. Ellsworth ave. and Second st. at 8:15 p. m. Friday.

He awaited a hearing today before Mayor Norman Phillips. According to police, Davis, traveling east on Second st., ran into a machine driven by Helen Huber of 683 Wodland ave., which was en route north on Ellsworth. Although her car was spun around in the street, she escaped unhurt, police said.

When Hyman Rotinsky of Youngstown attempted to drive away from the curb in front of the postoffice at 11 a. m. yesterday, he caused cars driven by Edward J. Crook of Canfield and William Adolph of 237 Washington ave., to collide.

William Kutz of R. D., North Georgetown, told police that his car hit a parked machine on E. State st., at 1 a. m. yesterday.

Mystery Surrounds Route 14 Accident An automobile owned by Paul M. Buhner of Rocky River, near Cleveland, struck a culvert on Route 14, one mile west of Columbiana, at 8:40 p. m. Friday, the state highway patrol reported.

Witnesses told the officers that three men, who got out of the car, cut and bleeding, were picked up by another machine to go to the office of a Columbiana physician.

The victims never showed up at a doctor's office, the patrol said. The abandoned car was towed to a Columbiana garage.

RUMANIA SIGNS WITH AXIS; TURKS ARE "READY TO FIGHT"

HITLER SWING TOWARD GREECE BELIEVED NEAR

Expected to Swing Bulgaria, Also, Into Axis Fold

TURKEY FEARS GERMAN THRUST

Declares Martial Law; Asserts She's Ready To Fight

(By Associated Press) Italy's back-fired invasion of Greece, highlighted by the Fascist retreat from Koritza toward a second defense line 30 miles inside Albania, brought into sharper relief today speculation that Adolf Hitler soon might swing the might of his Nazi armies against Greece.

Observers following the intricacies of Axis diplomacy saw increasing indications that, preparatory to such a move, Bulgaria, as well as Rumania, would be brought into the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo-Budapest Axis to open the way for the drive to the east.

Martial Law Declared Turkey apparently considered the danger of a German thrust through Bulgaria acute enough to declare martial law in the strategic Dardanelles region and instituted gasoline rationing.

Bulgarian deputies openly voiced strong demands for territory from Greece and Yugoslavia, as Berlin leaders entertained Gen. Ion Antonescu, Rumanian dictator, presumably as a prelude to Rumania's formal joining the Axis.

Turkey has said she would send her "2,000,000 bayonets" into action if Bulgaria moved against Greece. And even since Turkey's friend Soviet Russia sent Premier Vyacheslav Molotov to talk to German leaders in Berlin, the Turkish press has declared any threat to Turkish sovereignty would be met by Turkey's army.

"If war comes to us we shall not flinch, we are ready," the newspaper Cumhuriyet said.

The newspaper Ikdam said: "No one is able to say that Russia would accept easily a German attack on Greece, which would carry German troops toward the Dardanelles. However, the consent of Russia would not signify that Turkey did not mean to defend herself with all her might."

72,000 Italians Flee Greek spokesmen said at least 72,000 Italians fled westward after giving up their base at Koritza and abandoning stores of supplies and quantities of armament.

Captured Italian equipment, the Greeks said, included 80 small and heavy guns, 55 anti-tank guns, 20 tanks, more than 1,500 motorcycles and bicycles, 250 automobiles, in 25 days of war.

Axis raiders striking at London just after dawn sent crowds scurrying to shelter, but the alarm was brief. During the night the German air force renewed its attacks on Birmingham, German sources reported.

Returning pilots said huge new fires were started in the city, and that aircraft manufacturing centers were subjected to dive-bomber attacks.

London dispatches confirmed that widespread attacks on the industrial Midlands occurred, but censored identity of the most of the raided cities. The Liverpool area was admitted to have been one of the targets of Nazi airmen.

(By Associated Press) HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 23.—President Roosevelt announced today through a secretary that he would appoint Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, retired, now governor of Puerto Rico and former chief of naval operations, ambassador to France to succeed William C. Bullitt.

The secretary, William D. Hassett, said it had not been determined whether Leahy's nomination would be submitted to the senate.

Hassett told reporters: "You know what the President thinks of his naval ability. What he thinks of him as a counselor on defense, and as a man of superb all-around ability. As you know, the President depended heavily on him as chief of naval operations."

Greensburg Driver Acquitted By Jury

LISBON, Nov. 23.—Joseph B. Lloyd, Jr., 21, of Greensburg, Pa., was found not guilty of second degree manslaughter by a jury of eight women and four men which deliberated 25 minutes in reaching a verdict Friday afternoon in common pleas court here.

The youth was indicted by the grand jury following the traffic crash at the intersection of Routes 7 and 14 just east of Columbiana last Sept. 25, in which Mrs. Sophia Herman, 71, of Akron, was killed as a result of the collision of an express truck driven by Lloyd and a car driven by the dead woman's son, Harold Herman of Youngstown.

BOMB EXPLODES AT RESTAURANT IN CLEVELAND

Blast Second Within 24 Hours at Stouffer Corp. Building

POLICE CAR NEAR SCENE IS JOLTED

Bombed Restaurant Once Scene of Labor Racketeering Row

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—A bomb exploded early today at the rear of a restaurant operated by Stouffer Corp., injuring one of six employees and rocking Playhouse Square in downtown Cleveland.

The blast, heard five miles away, was the second within 24 hours at a Stouffer restaurant. An explosion early yesterday damaged the front of the company's Philadelphia establishment.

Detective Sergeant George Smyth said the explosion here apparently was caused by a bomb made of black powder and attached to a time mechanism. The concussion of the blast nearly overturned a police car in which Smyth was cruising less than a block from the restaurant.

Manager Is Cut Louis Reed, 24, a student manager, received head lacerations from flying debris. Five other employees working in the kitchen escaped injury.

A short time after the bombing, police said Vernon B. Stouffer of Cleveland, corporation president, would confer with Safety Director Elliot Ness and quoted Stouffer as saying he had "valuable information" which he would give only to Ness.

Smyth reported the bomb had been placed among boxes in a two-foot away from the rear entrance to the restaurant, under the kitchen. Read was showered with rubble and a small section of metal tubing was blown through a window.

Scene of Labor Trouble The bombed restaurant, one of two Cleveland establishments in the Stouffer chain, was the scene of labor racketeering during remodeling of the building several years ago. Stouffer was a witness against John E. McGee and Don A. Campbell, former Cleveland labor union officials now serving Ohio penitentiary terms for extorting $1,200 from Stouffer under threats of halting the remodeling.

Gordon Stouffer, brother of Vernon, said he had "absolutely no idea" of a motive for the bombing, and immediately asked a police detail be posted at the second Cleveland store and a third under construction.

Organizer Asks for Aged Pension Bill

COLUMBUS, Nov. 23.—Newly elected members of the Ohio legislature were asked today to support a bill to grant a flat $40 monthly pension to the aged.

Raymond J. Jeffrey, organizer of the Ohio society of old age pensioners, solicited the legislators by postcard and addressed a letter to the pensioners asking them to obtain 98,500 signatures to petitions for presenting the bill to the general assembly.

He indicated that if the legislature failed to enact the measure, additional signatures would be obtained in an effort to put it on the ballot as a proposed constitutional amendment.

The amendment would require 328,500 signatures. At present there are 131,000 pensioners in Ohio receiving an average of $23 monthly.

A new law effective in January increasing the maximum aid for aged grant from $30 a month to $40 was tagged as "phony" and a "vote catcher" by Jeffrey, who said "they are going to give you 'aid' based on need."

Voters rejected last year a constitutional amendment proposed by the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati to increase pensions.

Two Are Arrested On Traffic Counts V. E. King of Homeworth, arrested by the state patrol on a charge of reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Norman Phillips last night.

John M. Nutter of R. D. 3, Youngstown, also charged by the patrol with reckless driving, was fined $10 and costs in the mayor's court at Canfield.

Once one of the highest paid of silent screen stars, May McAvoy, is shown in divorce court in Los Angeles where she said she was forced to go on relief because her husband failed to support her. She obtained a divorce. She told the court that she had "allowed the motion picture relief fund to take care of her at intervals."

Two other countries on the route of "Drang Nach Osten" (drive to the east) were expected to be the next to affiliate themselves with the Alliance, which binds each one to aid the others against any new entrant in the conflicts in Europe or China.

They were Bulgaria, which borders Rumania, Greece and Turkey, and Slovakia, the Nazi-protected remnant of dissolved Czechoslovakia. The official announcement, said Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Gino Buti, director of the political department of the Italian foreign office, and Japanese ambassador to Berlin Sakura Kurusu on one side, and Premier-General Ion Antonescu of Rumania on the other, signed a protocol sealing Rumania's entrance into the three-power pact.

The protocol merely stated that Rumania had become a party to the alliance, effective immediately, and—like Hungary—would be consulted on matters concerning her.

Antonescu Speaks After the signing, in the same spacious chancellery where the original three-power pact was concluded, General Antonescu, who rose to power after the abdication of King Carol II last September, declared the step was taken in the interests of peace.

"An effective tool for the reorganization of Europe and the world has been created by the three-power pact," he asserted.

The premier said efforts of the past two decades to "secure a durable peace" failed because they were founded on "empty rhetoric of conferences, ideologies which were under the domination of reprehensible interests of destructive forces."

Envoys of Bulgaria and Slovakia are expected in Berlin next week.

Court Is Adjourned Until Monday, Dec. 22

LISBON, Nov. 23.—Common pleas court adjourned Friday afternoon, with all sessions suspended until Monday, Dec. 2, when members serving on the petit jury were instructed to report back in court. Judge W. F. Lones will consider motions and dispose of several matters in court here next week.

The jury will report in court room No. 2 on Dec. 2 when the embezzlement case of Miss Anna McNicol will be heard before Judge Lynn B. Griffiths of Trumbull county.

Carl Fatherly of Lisbon withdrew a plea of not guilty when he faced Judge Lones Friday afternoon, and pleaded guilty to petty larceny. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs and to be imprisoned in the county jail for 30 days. The indictment returned by the grand jury was in connection with the theft of mine car wheels from the Terrell coal mine.

ION ANTONESCU LAUDS NEW PACT

Sees "Effective Tool For The Reorganization Of Europe"

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Premier Bela Tuka of Slovakia is coming to Berlin to sign for his country tomorrow as the sixth member of the Axis military alliance, it was learned tonight.

(By Associated Press) Following Hungary into the bloc within four days, Rumania signed up as a member of the original Rome-Berlin-Tokyo ten-year military and economic alliance made here last Sept. 27, an official announcement said.

Nearer Dardanelles By this diplomatic stroke, Germany pushed the Axis sphere toward the Near East to a point less than 250 miles from the vital Dardanelles.

Two other countries on the route of "Drang Nach Osten" (drive to the east) were expected to be the next to affiliate themselves with the Alliance, which binds each one to aid the others against any new entrant in the conflicts in Europe or China.

FORGET THE OLD SCHOOL TIE

Opinions of Rep. Martin Dies range from the very good to something expressed in asterisks, but there can be no argument about the problem the energetic Texan is dealing with.

Common sense demands that the roots of treasonable activity be chopped off wherever and whenever they can be found—and they must be found. The United States learned in the years before it entered the World war how much hospitality too long continued to unfriendly guests can cost.

There is no room for delicacy in dealing with suspected subversionists; to a large extent, as revealed in the records of German diplomats and agents who abused American hospitality before the World war, delicacy is the meat on which subversionists feed. They know exactly what they intend to do and how they intend to do it, but depend on the element of doubt and decency in the minds of their intended victims to give them leeway.

Rep. Dies believes in exposing subversionists and fifth columnists before their plots have had time to take form. He believes in being at least as suspicious of potential spies and saboteurs as their governments always have been in handling their own problems of security. He has scant faith in counter-espionage to stop the depredations which are the function of espionage; he believes in dragging the sources of the trouble into the open before they have had a chance to do damage.

International law and its environment of international faith and courtesy have been shattered by the governments that have gone on the prowl for victims. There is no reason why their plots and plans should be screened by retention of an old school tie philosophy of good manners wasted on persons who are guided by nothing but expediency.

THE WORST STARTS COMING

The psychological problem of the sadly disorganized bloc of human beings trying to resist totalitarian conquest is becoming more complex. The startling success of German air raids against Coventry and Birmingham has robbed them of the meager hope they dared the feel when September passed without producing the totalitarian triumph of outright invasion of Great Britain.

Successful invasion would have brought victory to Germany and Italy the quick way, but they were not up to it. Blitzkrieg failed at the climax. Plainly, their strategy now calls for scattering their assault, exerting their force at widely separated points where British resistance is most heavily handicapped, in the hope of accomplishing in a farflung campaign what they were unable to accomplish in a concentrated drive in the English channel area.

This is to be done by intensification of the blockade against Great Britain, by moves in the Balkans, by a campaign to drive the British away from Gibraltar, by piecemeal destruction of British cities, and apparently by sabotage to cripple the productive capacity of the United States. It is the motive behind diplomacy designed to isolate Turkey from Great Britain. It is the motive for the Italian campaign in Greece.

Prime Minister Churchill and other spokesmen who have warned that the darkest days of the war were still ahead probably had these awful eventualities in mind. The fact is that the totalitarian bloc's potentialities of destruction have not been approached yet. The worst part of the war to destroy the British empire and the pattern of human society which it guards is yet to come. The decision will rest in large part upon ability of all who believe it is worth preserving to face yet more ghastly consequences than any which they have endured up to now.

REFORM BY THE BACKDOOR

Support for the merit system has been a "must" plank for all recent party platforms. With exception of the dark years of the unrestricted "spoils" system, civil service has been a constant aim of better government groups in the United States.

If it happens that civil service idealists are not too deeply impressed by new legislation empowering President Roosevelt to cover more than 200,000 federal employees into the civil service, that is one of the ironies of the reform they have fought for. Reform by the backdoor is better than none at all.

Ideally, civil service protection is established before the appointment of its jobholding beneficiaries. In the case of the New Deal, however, appointments have been made first and appointees blanketed into civil service afterward. The effect in many cases is to establish security for political appointees; growth of the civil service system is a byproduct.

On the other hand, it cannot be argued that the opposition would have done any better had it been the party in power at a time when the federal bureaucracy was growing by leaps and bounds. The ancient and not too honorable rule that to the victor belongs the spoils has not been repealed, civil service to the contrary notwithstanding.

SOME WELL LAID PLANS

When conscription was a legislative issue, critics thought it would be better to drum up volunteers. Unexpectedly, that has been the first important result of conscription.

Communities all over the country are filling their first draft quotas with volunteers. Draft officials are hazing guesses that close to half a million young men in line or the draft will enlist or apply to their draft boards for immediate induction.

When the first college term ends in January, a veritable rush to the colors is foreseen, followed by another in June. Mixed with patriotic fervor in many cases, of course, is a desire to get it over with as quickly as possible. Once selective service became a certainty, elective service became infinitely more attractive.

Strangely enough, this eventuality seems not to have been foreseen by any of the experts who discussed the matter: one more black eye for the inexact science of experting.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, November 24

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds testimonies of a rather singular, sudden and probably breathtaking occurrence which may have its final denouement far into the future. Such visitation may be radical and thrilling in its peculiar nature and its happy culmination depends on much discretion, discernment and wise choice when confronted by dilemma.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of adventure and experience quite out of the routine. There may be dramatic, romantic or startling visitations reaching far into the years for their real significance. These should be met with wise decisions.

A child born on this day should possess remarkable talents, with originality, freedom from all conventions and regulations, independent in thought and action. These are supported by subtle insight, strong intuitions and marked ingenuity.

For Monday, November 25

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a lively and enterprising day, with the energies and faculties under fine stimuli for success in new projects or where static conditions need aggressive and forceful readjustments. Push these with vigor and zest, especially in connection with well organized groups, but be alert to snares or petty treacheries.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fair success, with matters of new interest or innovation in old methods under particularly enterprising sway. It is a time for pushing with aggression and initiative in combination with well founded groups, but with a keen eye to deception, intrigue or small trickeries.

A child born on this day should be forceful, resourceful, energetic and have much executive and constructive ability, alert, powerful and resolute.

The bombers have poor sights or vicious natures. They always get seven children but nothing of military importance.

"The Jitters" Is What Dr. Clendening Calls Them

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My friend, Dr. A. E. Hertzler lives out in Halstead, Kansas, and gets wise. A lot of the rest of us are rushing around in the city, getting a house and lot, and an automobile, and a lot of clothes we don't need, and acquiring excitement and information while we as he hove in sight she said, "There isn't a single thing in Goodwin's Greek Grammar that tells what to do for a yelling child". A trained nurse, with a high school education, would have known what to do.

Agrees With Book
Even though closely associated as I am with university life, those remarks arouse a responsive chord in me. I visited a great university the other day and saw literally hundreds of students lying around on the campus, toying with their books. When my father and mother were that age they were married and had started in business in a new country. Now there is no new country and no new business. Those young people on the campus are temporizing with life; they have no thirst for knowledge, nor the they destined to be great scholars. They are simply breeding some swell-elegant neuroses.

Courageous Book
It's a very curious book—and a very courageous book for Dr. Hertzler to write because he knows all about the physical side of disease. I have a complete set of his works on surgical pathology—ten or twelve volumes—illustrated by photographs of the hundreds of specimens he has collected in the course of his surgical work. So he knows all about bad appendices, and gallstones, and goiters, and all the rest of it. But here he writes an entire book about how much sickness is the result of maladies of the soul.

There are plenty of examples of Dr. Hertzler's humor. He is a little suspicious of the value of a prolonged university education nowadays. He tells the story of a woman who taught Greek in a state university and who gave it up to get married and have a baby. She called Dr. Hertzler once and coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

German Remembrance day service at 11 a. m.

Remembrance Day
This Sunday brings us to the very last possible Sunday of the church year. It is a Christian custom of long standing to set aside the last Sunday of the church year for the purpose of remembering with loving thoughts the life and service of our dear dead. Most of the Protestant churches in America have long since discontinued the practice. In fact many have never observed a Remembrance day at the close of the church year. We do not pray for the dead, for the repose of their souls. Our service this day is in keeping with the New Testament spirit which says, "Blessed are the dead who henceforth, yea saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Remembrance Day has a message for all of us. Death is a universal experience. There is not a heart that has not at sometime felt the anguish caused by death. The purpose of this Remembrance day service is not to tear open anew the wounds so recently inflicted, but rather to find comfort, courage and inspiration as we recall the choicest moments that we were privileged to spend with our loved ones. Only thus can we prove ourselves worthy of the service they rendered and the sacrifice they made for us.

English Lutherans List Church Events

"A Consecrated Church," is the sermon topic that Rev. George D. Keister has chosen for the morning worship at the English Lutheran church this Sunday. It is the twenty-seventh Sunday after Trinity.
The complete church schedule follows:
Sunday school 9:45 (St. Luke 8:4-15).
Charles W. Youtz, Supt.
There are different evaluations of the Gospel of Christ. To a large percentage of the world's population, it is the message of life and salvation. Then there is a group that looks with doubt and suspicion upon any claims of the Christian message. It is very true that God's Word does fall upon the hard and crooked soil of some human hearts. It cannot enter in. It brings forth no fruit nor growth. In other hearts, it may have only a temporary growth and then when the first enthusiasm dies away, the whole program of God is soon forgotten. The attitude of hearing and doing the commandments of God is the good soil of human hearts. This approach to the message of God has its attending blessings.
Morning Worship 11.
Only a devout, spirit-filled congregation can effectively do the works of God. The church has been growing since the very day of its small and difficult beginning. It has withstood many attacks both from within and without. The very persistence of the advance of the church is concrete evidence that the church is divine. The loyal and faithful people who have carried on the work of God's Kingdom through the past years, are the spiritual life, who have passed on to the present generation the goodly heritage of God. The people of God recognize the divine influence in every part of life. The church only can march on as people are obedient to God.
Luther League, 6:30 Devotional topic, "Learning God's Will." Leader, Joyce DeWan, evening.
Lydia Bible class—Meets Monday evening.

Christian Science Program Announced

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WOIE (610 kil) Cleveland the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m. Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 8:30 a. m. The midweek service will be held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.
The Golden Text is, "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard; which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:8,9).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why are thou disquieted with mine? hope thou in God; for I shall yet praise, who is the health of my countenance, and my God" (Psalm 42:11).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul is the substance, Life and intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit."
This society maintains a reading room at 136 S. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. Open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services and visit the reading room.

Rev. Magann's Topic, 'Prayer that Works'
Rev. Magann will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "Prayer that Works." In commenting on the sermon he said, "Prayer is a subject frequently used and too frequently abused. We need to think of it as man's great avenue of approach to God and communion with Him. It is so important that we should frequently examine our technique of prayer to be sure that we keep it free from human handicaps.
It is profitable to think of the words of Carlyle who said, 'Prayer is and remains always a native and deep impulse of the soul of man... No prayer, no religion—or at least only a dumb and lamed one.'
The Sunday evening sermon will be on the subject, 'Your Picture of Self and God's Picture of You.' Among other things, this sermon will deal with our strange power to blind our eyes to the truth especially as it concerns an honest picture of ourselves and our responsibilities. It will also deal with God's picture of us as individuals and the great importance of each one seeing that picture.

LOVELY FABRICS DISPLAYED FOR HOME DRESSMAKERS

When you are ready to pack up and go home for the holidays, don't cry because you haven't new clothes. If you can sew, you will have plenty of time to make some really smart wardrobe additions, for the fabric counters are really bulging with a variety of inexpensive fabrics. If you plan your wardrobe, it will not only see you through the holidays, but stand you in good stead for the rest of the season. After your arrival, change your traveling suit to the beige daytime dress, shown right. This pattern calls for soft, gathered details that emphasize curves and show off every type of figure to advantage. For tea or an afternoon at the theater, the black rayon jersey, left, will lead the fashion parade. Gathered interest is centered in front, surrounding a diamond-shaped bodice inset. Plain below-elbow-length sleeves, simple collarless neckline and sleek skirt are other details. For evening there is the misty blue rayon jersey, center, which molds the figure in draped and fluid lines. With a two-piece jacket dress for traveling, you'll be all set for the holidays.

"I BELONG TO YOU" by ROSAMOND DU JARDIN

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Sandy's place was warm and sticky and thick with smoke and crowded and noisy with people. There was a bar at one side and a long gambling room at the other, with a space for dancing surrounded by small tables at the back. People circulated freely from one room to the other, smart, urban-looking people in evening clothes, women in slacks and sport clothes, men in creased and crumpled white. A queer medley of types and classes, old and young, rich and poor, innocent and worldly. The crowd that had come from Griff's party made their way through the crush to the gambling room, to congregate, almost in their entirety about the roulette table. Most of them bought chips a once from the bored croupier. The others stood watching.

March had never played roulette. The turning wheel the brittle click of the ball, the croupier's flashing rake, pushing and pulling the chips expertly, fascinated her. She realized that Griff had addressed her and turned an inquiring glance upon him.

He repeated, "Would you like to play?"

But March shook her head. "I don't know anything about it."

"It's simple," Griff placed a little stack of chips before her. "You pick a color or a number or a group of numbers. Of course the odds are smaller on a group, or if you simply play red or black, because your chances of winning are greater."

He took two chips from the top of the stack before her. "I'll place your first bet for you."

The wheel whirled. The little ball raced dizzily. The bored croupier pushed over a stack of chips.

"Just like that," Griff grinned down at her. He seemed to derive a vicarious thrill from her eager excitement. "Go on, try it yourself. It's fun...."

Brent was in bed when March got home, but he wasn't sleeping. Through the open window he had heard the wheels of Griff Morgan's car on the drive, had caught March's laughing, "Good-night, Griff. It was all marvelous," and Griff's answering, "You were marvelous. And don't forget tomorrow."

March had said then, "I'll let you know about that," and his light step had sounded on the stairs and Griff's car had purred off and the night was still again.

Now March was in the room, closing the door softly behind her. Did she think he hadn't heard? But she was crossing toward the bed swiftly, a slim waif in the darkness, she was sitting beside him, her hand eager and insistent on his shoulder.

She said, "Brent, Brent, are you awake?"

The touch of her seared his flesh, so that the quick blood pounded in his ears. He said, through the anger that shook him, "I'm awake, all right."

She didn't just at first sense that anger. She asked, "But why didn't you come, darling? What happened?"

"Nothing happened, more than I told you." His tone was icily controlled. "The car broke down and I had to wait for a repair man. It was around eleven when I got home and I went straight on to the Morgans. No one was there."

"But we left a message. We told a servant to tell you—"

"That you'd gone in town to Sandy's," Brent finished for her. He hadn't felt in any mood to go chasing in to Sandy's or any place else for that matter. He'd been tired and exasperated. That nonchalant message had been the final straw. "So, since the idea of going to Sandy's didn't appeal to me, I came home."

He let it at that.

March said blithely, intent only on her own good fortune, "Darling, I know it's horribly late—but we were having such fun." She was a little incoherent with joy and excitement. "I had the most astounding luck—you'll scarcely believe it, Brent. I won seven hundred dollars at roulette."

The words lay in the darkness between them for a moment. Incredible at his silence, March reached out and switched on the little bedside lamp. Not until then did she see the set fury in his face. Slowly he raised himself on one elbow. His eyes blazed at her.

He said scathingly, "You won—but where on earth did you get the money to gamble with? They don't play for small change at Sandy's."

"Griff gave me some chips. I—I had no idea at first what they amounted to. He gave me fifty dollars worth, I realized later. But I paid him back, Brent. I paid him back out of my winnings. I won from the very first."

"And what if you'd lost?" His voice lashed out at her, so that she cringed a little. "How would you have paid him then?"

March had to speak. She had to stop Brent. Before his anger drove him to say unforgivable things to her, harsh, doubting words that must never be said between them. She laid her hand on his arm, but he shook it off.

She tried to explain. "But, Brent, you don't understand. It wasn't as though he loaned me money. It was just a little stack of chips and then—"

"A little stack of chips! A woman's code of honor is a queer thing."

"Perhaps it is. Because it seems to me that so long as I paid him back, I've nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to hide." Her voice altered, grew softly pleading. "And, darling, think of all the things we can do with seven hundred dollars."

"You—net we. I wouldn't touch Griff Morgan's money. It's all yours." Out of the torturing doubts that beat in his brain he demanded, "What are you doing with him tomorrow? I heard you, you know."

March said quietly, feeling his distrust, his condemnation, closing in around her. "He wanted us to ride with him, both of us. I said I'd ask you and let him know."

In the glow of the little lamp, she could see Brent's lip curl. He didn't believe her. Blindly she turned off the light and got up. She wouldn't cry. She stood for a moment, her hands clenched so tightly she could feel the bite of her nails into soft flesh. Presently, saying no word, she slipped out of her clothes and donned pajamas. And still Brent didn't speak. March lay down on the extreme edge of the bed, the thought of even accidental contact with his body arousing in her a sharp distaste. She lay very still and taut, staring into darkness, waiting. Brent lay quietly, too. After a time his steady breathing told her he slept.

Incredulously March listened. Despair welled up in her. That this was sleep of utter physical exhaustion, she didn't realize. She only knew the sleep beside her with anger and doubt in his heart, this man she loved, in whose arms she had known ecstasy. A sob caught in March's throat. But Brent didn't hear it. Brent was asleep.

72,000 Fans to Watch Michigan and Ohio State Renew Feud

Minnesota, Big Ten Champ, Seeks To Complete Perfect Season Against Wisconsin

Cornell and Penn State Battle For Ivy League Crown; Mississippi vs. Mississippi State In South's Big Game

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The football season isn't over yet by several dozen games, but today, for the first time, it gets down to the stage where the fans can concentrate on a few all-important contests.

The Big Ten season ends with Minnesota, already crowned champion, seeking to complete a perfect season against Wisconsin. Except for next week's classic Army-Navy tilt and a few other big ones, eastern football winds up its activities; the South's major conference titles should be decided and probably those in a few other sectors.

Oddly enough, only two really decisive games are on today's list and they're not ones to settle the question of national supremacy. They are Penn-Cornell at Philadelphia and Mississippi State-Mississippi at State college.

Cornell and Penn Tangle

The first will settle the mythical championship of the "Ivy league," but it won't decide the equally mythical eastern championship unless something happens to Boston college, which plays Auburn. Cornell looked by far the strongest team in the east until Dartmouth proved the Big Red team could be beaten—even though it took a couple of days of doubt before the final score was agreed upon. Penn, beaten only by Michigan, still appears to be second best in the "Ivy" group and some 78,000 fans are looking for a classic battle between these two.

Mississippi, beaten only by Arkansas, and Mississippi State, unbeaten but tied by Auburn, both have chances to figure in the South-eastern conference title race. Ole Miss, if victorious, can claim a part interest, even if unbeaten and untied Tennessee should follow forth and whip Kentucky at Knoxville. State's only chance lies in an upset by the Wildcats, which doesn't appear entirely impossible.

The backgrounds that make today's other big games important are different, but none the less compelling.

Old Yale-Harvard Rivalry

At the top comes the 59th Yale-Harvard tussle. That's been a major game since grandpa's time and it's not going to stop just because both teams had miserable seasons this year.

While Minnesota closes its Big Ten campaign against Wisconsin, the other conference teams take on favored rivals. Michigan plays Ohio State, Iowa meets Illinois, Purdue tackles Indiana and Northwestern encounters Notre Dame.

Nebraska can clinch at least a tie for the Big Six crown by whipping weak Iowa State while its rival, Oklahoma, marks time with an inter-sectional tilt with Temple. In the Southern conference, Clemson has only to beat Furman as expected, to win the title.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Millard Brown 29, Dallas, Ia., has had 48 operations in the past 15 years. Chronic osteomyelitis, a disease which causes abscesses on the bones, has brought him back to the university hospital here at least twice a year since 1925.

PHILADELPHIA—The national defense program has enlisted the aid of blind Philadelphians with a $4,750 Army contract for cotton pillow-cases. The contract was awarded to the Philadelphia branch of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind.

BOWLING RESULTS
In Grate Ladies league games last night, the Ford V-8's continued to hold their big first place margin as they edged the third-place Brownsies two out of three. Polsky's went into a tie for second place as they swept three from the A. A. A. while Endres-Gross was losing two to the Damascus Lumber.
The Trades Class lost three games to the Salem Cab and the Church Budget game fans down this way would really like to see Tennessee vs. Texas Aggies. Clemson has been kept busy all week denying rumors of rebellion on its grid squad. Right when the Tigers are on the threshold of the Southern conference championship, too. The three-round knockout in Memphis made Pat Conisky, the New Jersey Irishman, okay with this part of the country as a heavy-weight champion.

Jenkins KO's Lello In Title Defense
BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Give Lew Jenkins a man he can tilt and the skinny ex-cavayman from Sweetwater, Texas, still looks like a great lightweight champion.
In the first defense of his 135-pound title since he stopped Lou Ambers last summer, Lew gave Pete Lello of Chicago the works in the Garden last night.

HARMON WILL TRY TO BREAK GRANGE'S MARK

Michigan Star Needs One Touchdown to Equal Immortal's Record

COLUMBUS, Nov. 23.—In the first sell-out game for Ohio stadium in nine games, the Ohio State University Buckeyes play the Michigan Wolverines today in the 37th renewal of one of the grid-iron's greatest rivalries.

A homecoming crowd of more than 72,000 persons is assured for the classic contest which closes the season for both schools. In their 36 previous meetings, Michigan won 24, Ohio State 10, and two were ties.

Feature attraction for most fans is the anticipated duel between Ohio State's highly rated quarterback, Don Scott, and Michigan's All-American halfback, Tom Harmon. Both will be making their last collegiate appearance.

Stars Graduate

Other stars to be lost through next spring's graduation include Capt. Forest Evashevsky, Ed Fritz, Joe Rogers and Ralph Fritz of Michigan, and Capt. Jimmy Longhurst, Claude White, Bill Nosker, Charlie Maag, Frank Clair and Jim Strausbaugh of Ohio State.

Harmon, with 30 touchdowns to his credit in his three years with the Wolverines, has only to score one touchdown against Ohio to equal the three-year record of "Red" Grange, the Illinois immortal, who crossed the goal line 31 times.

In seven games this year, Harmon already has scored 13 touchdowns and kicked a field goal and 14 extra points.

The Buckeyes tapered off with a light drill yesterday and then retired for the night at the Columbus Country club, far from the homecoming festivities on the campus. The Michigan team spent the night in Toledo.

At least, last night's result was clean-cut and stylish. Jenkins, looking lean and hungry at 131½ pounds, slapped Lello to the canvas with the first clean punch he landed in the second round. It was a powerful left hook to the chin, and it settled the fight.

Opportunities to buy at advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

Wilson Takes Helm of Cubs

The hero of the 1940 world series, Jimmy Wilson, left, is pictured in Chicago as he signed a two-year contract to manage the Chicago Cubs. Wilson quit his player-coach job with the Cincinnati Reds to take the Cubs' managerial post. James Gallagher, former Chicago sports writer who was recently appointed general manager of the team, watches Jimmy sign on the dotted line.

TURNER LEADS VOTE GETTERS

Supreme Court Jurist's Majority Tops Even Bricker's

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 23.—Gov. John W. Bricker's 394,000 majority over Democrat Martin L. Davey was the largest ever given an Ohio gubernatorial candidate but, analysis of official returns showed today, he was outstripped better than two to one by another victor in the Nov. 5 election.

Judge Edward S. Turner of the supreme court, elected to fill an unexpired term to which he was originally appointed, brought in the real tons in the way of majorities—a smashing 803,153 over Democrat Dennis F. Dunlavy.

Turner's plurality was scored in a race which attracted only a little more than two-thirds of the total polled in the gubernatorial contest.

Judges are chosen on a separate judicial ballot and the Turner-Dunlavy contest was listed last of the three supreme court races. Judge Turner polled 68.7 per cent of the votes cast compared with 55.5 per cent for Governor Bricker. His 147,310 total was better than two to one over Dunlavy's 67,157.

Another supreme court judge exceeded Bricker's percentage figure. Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield, reelected for a six-year term, polled 56.5 per cent of the total vote for this race and his plurality over Clinton Boyd, nominated by the Republicans, was 289,425.

First Draft Bride and Husband

The nation's first draft bride, Mrs. Albert Pescatore, is pictured with her husband in their Far Rockaway, N. Y., home after it was ruled by a New York draft board that her husband must serve a year with the U. S. armed forces under the terms of the selective service act, since she is employed and thus self supporting. This ruling makes Mrs. Pescatore the nation's first draft bride.

Incumbent who ran as an independent. Bettman's plurality was twice as large as Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's and 50 per cent larger than Treasurer Don Ebricht's, both the latter running in two-candidate races.

Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, elected to the other six-year supreme court term, got 39.6 per cent of the vote in the three-man contest but still held a 98,287 plurality over Judge Arthur Day, Republican.
